of the MOMENT

ROY E. MOULTON

A WORD TO THE DEPARTED

Dear R. E. M.: I miss the dear old free lunch that was but is no more. Requisite in pace to his crumbst many of the happiest moments, spent amidst its merry surroundings, and memory clings fondly to those festive occasions of braw and beef-steak, and the jolly perils that were ever wont at the noon hour to lighten the cares of toil. You, of all sad men, will understand my grief.

Today I entered one of those restaurants with the juvenile name, and indeed, again saw my old friend, but not the same. "New England Vegetarian Dinner. Help Conserve the Nation's supply. 25c." For old times' sake, I ordered, but my grief, or something like that, would not let me eat there. For, after all, it was only the ghost of its former greatness—a mere remnant of what once was strength and vigor, manhood, I fled the place.

HOW TIMES ARE CHANGING. NO MORE RICE AND OLD SHOES AT WEDDINGS. PEOPLE ARE WEARING THE FORMER AND WEARING THE LATTER.

Dr. Dillard, a pastor of St. Louis, has discovered that there is little in the way of the mule. Now let him give us a decision on the clarion voice of La Follette.

It is a pleasure occasionally to read the works of that sterling old humorist, Dr. Wiley. A few days ago he gave us this bit of advice: "Do not eat too much. Nothing could be worse than that."

WE OFTEN WONDER IF THE KAISER'S CONSCIENCE HAS A PUNCH LEFT IN IT.

Since the war started the holes in the Swiss cheese have been growing noticeably larger.

We complained of this in our favorite cafe the other day and the waiter said: "The best Swiss cheese always has the largest holes."

The next time we ordered a Swiss cheese sandwich the waiter handed us two pieces of rye bread with nothing between them.

"The cheese is there," he said, "but you can't see it. It is entirely hole. Therefore it is probably the best cheese sandwich you have ever had."

IN A SMALL TOWN, TOO.

But this boy is the town cut-up: B. A. KUSS, Druggist, Amherst, Ohio.

An Indiana man is giving his wife an acre of land a day to keep her from nagging him. If he keeps this practice up until she is cured he will probably have given her the whole state of Indiana and portions of Illinois and Ohio.

Astronomer in his 1917 report says there are 7,000 stars visible to the naked eye. Hub! There are more than that in the motion pictures.

Fashion journal says: "Women should get gowns which fit their minds."

But some of them would then be gowned like Lady Godiva.

Ex-President Castro, of Venezuela, is dead again.

Old C. Castro holds third place in the list of champion demagogues. King Menelik, of Abyssinia, holds first place and Villa second.

We are sure that if we had not sprayed the trees our apples would have been wormy and good for nothing like our neighbors.—Letter to Farm and Fireside.

ADJUTANT GENERAL
GIVES INFORMATION ON THE GUARD UNITS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Nov. 17.—So little information has appeared in the press regarding the Wisconsin guard units that Adjutant General Ho-way made public today such information as he has on hand regarding the new organizations. This also shows the regimental numbers of the troops drafted from Wisconsin and now in training at Camps Custer and Grant.

The 32nd Infantry division at Camp MacArthur, Waco, Texas, comprises the 64th Brigade (commanded by General Boardman) and consisting of the 127th and the 128th regiments of the 32nd Infantry division. The 127th and 128th regiments are commanded respectively by Col. Lee and Col. Turner and the 47th Brigade, commanded respectively by Col. Lee and Col. Turner, comprises a best of the Wisconsin Guard infantry, originally six regiments.

There are also at Waco the 120th field artillery regiment, Col. Penner; the 121st field artillery regiment, Col. Westfall, who also has a trench mortar battery, and the 107th train artillery police, Col. McCoy, comprising men of the former fourth infantry and two field hospital and two ambulance companies—all the foregoing being Wisconsin organizations.

The three guard companies—Oshkosh, Appleton and Fond du Lac—of the old second infantry, which were sent to join the first Rainbow division at Camp Mills, Long Island, are supposed to be in the 150th machine gun battalion, 83rd Brigade, 42nd division. From letters received by relatives in Winnebago county, these Wisconsin guardsmen are already in France.

At Camp Custer, Battle Creek, the 340th infantry regiment contains conscripted men from the eastern tier of Wisconsin counties. At Camp Grant, Rockford, the 341st infantry regiment contains conscripted men from western Wisconsin, and the 331st machine gun battalion and a battery of field artillery are also Wisconsin men.

That Wisconsin men are getting into the ranks rapidly is indicated by a review of the men already in training. Counting the Guards now at Waco, Texas, at 15,500 and the 12,600 conscripted men, the new volunteers, the men at the officers' training camps and those who have gone into the regular army, navy and other military organizations, it is estimated that by the end of the year Wisconsin will have 35,000 men to the colors. This is about one-third of the total number furnished by Wisconsin during the entire Civil war. This is the last chance for registered men to volunteer.

Dinner Stories

The late Cy Warner told this story at a luncheon not long before his death.A Scotchman came upon an automobile overturned by a railway crossing. Beside it lay a man all smashed up. "Get a doctor," he moaned."Did the train hit you?" asked the Scotchman.

"Yes, yes; get a doctor."

"Has the claim agent been here yet?"

"No, no; please get a doctor."

"Move over, you," said the Scot,
"till I lie down beside you."Tennyson wore the same hat year after year, a big wide-awake, almost green with age. How long exactly he had worn this hat nobody seems to know. His Inverness cloak was not quite so ancient, but had long since seen its best days. The great poet was scrupulously clean in his person, but he would not part with his old Skinner makes his picturesque appearance in "Mr. Antonio," the Booth Tarkington comedy, in which he is to be seen at the Myers theatre Monday evening, Nov. 19. The role of Tony Camaradonio, the Italian organ grinder, is one of the most interesting Mr. Skinner has had in years. Tony is a happy-go-lucky vagabond, with a half-witted fellow as a companion, and it is his custom when spring comes to take the road and journey the country over. Tony believes in sunshine, in happiness and in goodness. He acts the Good Samaritan, and aids a prominent small town official who has fallen into bad company. Later, when an opportunity occurs, this man falls to do Tony a good turn, but Tony is still optimistic, and in the end he wins out. Mr. Skinner is under the Charles Frohman management, and is supported by a strong and capable company.Second hand stores are in great de-

"Fair and Farmer." "Fair and in New York that a demand for it came from north, east, south and west before the end of the sixth big month matinee and night, Nov. 18, by Selwyn the public has not once failed them in the four years of their existence."Fair and Farmer" is infallible as a laugh-maker. Nobody was ever able to resist its array of absurd situations or its galaxy of sparkling lines. These accounted for the fact that for month after month of its long run in New York there was never a vacant seat in the theatre.Selwyn & Company will present

MYERS THEATER.

Playing the hurdy-gurdy, which is drawn by a small white donkey, Otis
Skinner makes his picturesque appear-clothes.
He seems to have clung as tenaciously to his boots as to his hat. William A. Browning, died at Tennyson's last night. Tennyson in great force. He said, "This pair of dress boots is for years old." Browning said, "The good evidence of the immortality of the sole!"After telling the story of the wanderings of the Israelites in the wilderness, a teacher the other day asked:
"When at last after forty years they found themselves out of the wilderness, what would they be?"She expected the answer that they would be old men and women, but a little girl who put up her hand promptly replied:

"Out of breath."

NATIONAL PARKS AS WAR TIME PASTURESEstes Park, Col., Nov. 17.—To increase the meat supply for war purposes, herds of sheep probably will gambol about the heretofore inviolate territory of the Rocky Mountain and Mesa Verde national parks, if a suggestion offered by Herbert Hoover, U.
S. Department of the Interior, is accepted. Thomas B. Stearns, state food administrator, proves practical.It is believed the permission of the government could be secured, and the Colorado mutton supply greatly increased, as the unrugged national parks would furnish a luxurious pasture.Myers Monday 19

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

(Miss Hoyt writes answer in this paper all questions on matters of etiquette addressed to her in care of this paper. If a personal answer is desired enclose a two-cent stamp.)

When a lady is welcoming guests in her home she should greet the strangers with the same cordiality that she shows to the old friend.

YOUNG WIDOW:—I would be quite correct for your parents to issue cards announcing your marriage. In fact that is just the thing for them to do. The cards should read thus: Mr. and Mrs. John F. Brown have the pleasure to announce the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Grace Elizabeth Wells, to Mr. Charles Lee Parker, on Saturday, November twenty-four, nineteen hundred and seventeen, at St. Mary's Church, in formal invitations and announcements, the words Street, Avenue, or Boulevard should not be abbreviated and dates and addresses must be spelled out instead of being indicated by numerals.

MRS. B.:—If you call upon an acquaintance and you find that she is just starting out, do not pass by the house and enter your visit for another day, even if her motor-car is at the door. Ring her door-bell, and if told that she is going out, do not go in. Leave cards as if she were not at home. If, however, you are invited to enter, do so, but stay only a few minutes.

SIDE TALKS

—BY—RUTH CAMERON

The Hardest Thing.
I am always tempted to leave this task until after I have washed the dishes and gotten them ready to put away. If I do then, I am subconsciously dreading it while I wash, and I am apt to be more lackadaisical, more prone to let things interrupt me. If, on the other hand, I find myself bristling at the task the minute I get the last dish cleared off, and am conscious that I have a clean table, my dishes are apt to go much more briskly.

Get It Off Your Mind.
You don't know (unless you have the habit) what a help it is to get the hardest task off your mind. It makes the rest of your tasks seem easier by contrast.

Also, it is good discipline to make yourself do promptly a thing you dislike.
Also, the impetus you have to get up carries you straight through your easier tasks with a rush.

I Hate To Brush Off The Crumbs.
I have the most inexplicable and deep seated dislike to one little household task connected with my dishes. I simply hate to brush the crumbs off the table.

Resume of Moving Picture Programs Of The Week

By Mrs. Abbie Helms.
The Majestic had, a lively picture of the same kind as the one which its Sunday offering, with Mary Anderson as the mine owner and Antonio Moreno as the cowboy sheriff. A strike of the miners and a cave-in at the mine lead to a tragedy. Finally the lady is elected sheriff and is called on to arrest her cowboy lover. She is game and does it, only to find it is a trap set for her by the villain. The picture is shown at the "Periwinkle."

The Production of "The Libertine" at the Majestic, though a very good one, told a terrible moral lesson. It was something which would be apt to deter any girl from going astray.

The Daily Novelette

THE EMMALOOOLIAN EMERALD.
(Synopsis of preceding chapters: It is a great day in the life of Theobald, a young man, who is a very successful fortune hunter, when he is accepted by the fair and fabulously wealthy Virginia Smeer, daughter of Watchmaker Smeer the cheese king. In order to get in right from the very start, Theobald determines to roam the world in search of the finest and most expensive engagement ring that ever decorated a dear one's digit. Search he makes, but in vain. He is finally captured by robbers in Robbany, assassinated in the Assassinatechian Mountains, pirates in the Pirates, vandals in the Vandals, and a highwayman in Highwayville. He is finally rescued by a young man, twice being shot at in the Straits and once in the fabled, He unearths and rejects priceless diamonds, onyx, didelous, diamonds, rubies, and finally, after a year and two months, is satisfied with a comical diamond ring from the peddler's shop. Theobald returns home, the first of the Smeer mansion on Fifth Avenue.)

Conclusion.
"Miss Virginia Smeer, sir," said the butler. There is no sir, sir, sir. She is Mrs. Doodleham Wilkes now, sir. Married this afternoon, sir. Yes, sir, that explains all the fuss about, sir." The end.

ROCK COUNTY WINS HONORS AT STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL GATHERING

Members who have just returned from the Sunday school convention held during this last week at Fond du Lac, report that it was the largest ever held. Janesville showed up well in attendance, having twenty-four delegates and Rock County was in line with sixty-one delegates.

The banner for the best organization in the state, this is the third time that this banner has been won by Rock County and it shows a commendable proficiency as it takes into consideration not only the lessons, but the records of attendance and other matters. This convention was made up from all denominations and was inspiring from that reason. Many noted people were in attendance and made addresses. The International secretary, W. C. Pearce, gave several talks. Mr. Halpin, the secretary from Canada, and Dr. Baerly, the expert on teen age activities, were also present and contributed to the program.

COAL HEAVEN NOW A STUDENT AT UNIVERSITY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Nov. 17.—Coal heaven, glove cutter, strike leader, penitential hobo and now a student in the college of law at the University of Wisconsin.

That, in brief, sums up the career to date of Homer De Pasquale, 28 years old, an advocate of democracy and friend of the down-trodden. De Pasquale is making his way through the university by selling gloves to fellow students. He is in his second year and leads his class. When he was a child laborer in Cleveland, De Pasquale heard that the University of Wisconsin was the most democratic school in the world. He made up his mind then to study here some day.

Unshaken Testimony

Time is the test of truth. And Don's Kidney Pills have stood the test in Janesville. No Janesville resident who suffers backache, or annoying kidney and bladder ills, can remain unconvinced by this twice-told testimony.

Mrs. Emilie Holt, 266 Riverside St., Janesville, says: "I suffered terribly from pains through the small of my back. I had severe pains in my head and my kidneys didn't act regularly. I felt miserable until I got Don's Kidney Pills, at the People's Drug Co. Two or three boxes made me well again."

OVER FOUR YEARS LATER, Mrs. Holt said: "I still use Don's Kidney Pills once in awhile and they keep my kidneys in good condition."

Be sure, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Don's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Holt has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

GRANDMOTHER KNEW

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard-plaster burned and blistered while it acted. Get the relief and help that mustard plasters give without the plaster and without the blister.

Musterole does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin.

Gently massage Musterole in with the finger-tips. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears. Use Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, sinusitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, chilblains, sore feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

King of the Khyber Rifles

A Romance of Adventure

By TALBOT MUNDY

(Copyright by Bobbs-Merrill Company)

"How do you know whose light it was?" King demanded, when the horse and mare were head to head again.

"It was prearranged. She promised me a signal at the point where I am to leave the track!"

King drove both spurs home, and set his unwilling horse to scrambling downward at an angle he could not guess, into blackness he could feel, trusting the animal to find a footing where his own eyes could make out nothing.

To his disgust he heard the Ranger immediately. To his even greater disgust the black mare overtook him. And even then, with his own mount stumbling and nearly pitching him headfirst at each lurch, he was forced to admire the mare's godlike agility, for she descended into the gorge in running leaps, never setting a wrong foot. When he and his horse reached the bottom at last he found the Ranger waiting for him.

"This way, sahib!"

The next he knew sparks from the black mare's heels were kicking up to front of him, and a wild ride had begun such as he had never yet dreamed of. There was no catching up, for the black mare could gallop up, for the black mare could gallop up, for the black mare could gallop up.

Once in every two minutes he caught sight for a second of the same blue star light that had started the race. He suspected that there were many torches placed at intervals.

His own horse developed a speed and stamina he had not suspected, and probably the Ranger did not dare extend the mare to her limit in the dark; at all events, for ten, perhaps fifteen, minutes of breathless galloping he almost made a race of it, keeping the Ranger either within sight or sound.

But then the mare swerved suddenly behind a boulder and was gone. He spurred round the same great rock a minute later, and was faced by a blank wall of shale that brought his horse up at standing. It led steeply up for a thousand feet to the skyline. There was not so much as a goat-track to show in which direction the mare had gone, nor a sound of any kind to guide him.

He dismounted and stumbled about on foot for about ten minutes with his eyes two feet from the earth, trying to find some trace or foot. Then he listened, with his ear to the ground. There was no result.

He knew better than to shout. After some thought he mounted and began to hunt the way back, remembering turns and twists with a gift for direction that natives might well have envied him. He found his way back to the foot of the road at a trot, where ninety-nine men out of a hundred would have been lost hopelessly; and close to the road he overtook Darya Khan, hugging his rifle and staring about like a scorpion at bay.

"Did you expect that blue light, and this galloping away?" he asked.

"Nay, sahib! I knew nothing of it! I was told to lead the way to Khin-Jan."

"Come on, then!"

On the level road above King stared about him and felt in his pockets for a fresh cheroot. He struck a match and watched it to be sure his hand did not shake before he spoke. A man must command himself before trying it on others.

"Where are the others?" he asked, when he was certain of himself.

"Gone!" boomed Ismail.

King took a dozen pulls at the cheroot and stared about again. In the middle of the road stood his second horse, and three mules with his baggage, including the unmarked medicine chest. Close to them were three men, making the party now only six all told, including Darya Khan, himself and Ismail.

"Gone whither?" Ismail's voice was eloquent of shocked surprise. "They followed! Was it then thy baggage on the other mules? Were they thy men? They led the mules and went!"

"Who ordered them?"

"Allah! Need the night be ordered to follow the day?"

"And then?"

"I am thy man! She bade me be thy man!"

"And these?"

"Try them!"

King beheld him of his wrist, that was heavy with the weight of gold on it. He drew back his sleeve and held it up.

"May God be with thee!" boomed all five men at once, and the Khyber night gave back their voices, like the echoing of a well.

King took his reins and mounted.

"What now?" asked Ismail, picking up the leather bag that he regarded as his own particular charge.

"Forward!" said King. "Come along!"

He began to set a fairly fast pace, Ismail leading the spare horse and the others towing the mules along.

Except for King, who was modern and out of the picture, they looked like Old Testament patriarchs, hurrying out of Egypt, as depicted in the illustrated Bibles of a generation ago—all leaning forward—each man carrying a staff—and none looking to the right or left.

"Forward!" growled Ismail. "With this man it is ever forward! Is there neither rest nor fear? Has she bewitched him? Hail! Ye lazy ones!"

Ho! Sons of sloth! Urge the mules faster! Beat the led horse!"

So in weird, wan moonlight, King led them forward, straight up the narrowing gorge, between cliffs that seemed to fray the very bosom of the sky. He smoked a cigar and stared at the view, as if he were off to the mountains for a month's sport with dependable shikaris whom he knew. Nobody could have looked at him and guessed he was not enjoying himself.

"That man," mumbled Ismail behind him, "is not as other sahibs I have known. He is a man, this one! He will do unexpected things!"

"Forward!" King called to them, thinking they were grumbling. "Forward, men of the 'Hills'!"

CHAPTER VIII.

After a time King urged his horse to a jog-trot, and they trotted forward until the bed of the Khyber began to grow very narrow, and all Masjid fort could not be much more than a mile away, at the widest guess. Then King drew rein and dismounted, for he would have been challenged had he ridden much farther. A challenge in the Khyber under dark consists invariably of a volley at short range, with the mere words afterwards, and the wise man takes precautions.

"Off with the mules' packs!" he ordered, and the men stood round and stared. Darya Khan, leaning on the only rifle in the party, grinned like a post-office letter box.

"Truly," growled Ismail, forgetting past expressions of a different opinion, "this man is as mad as all the other Englishmen."

"Were you ever bitten by one?" wondered King aloud.

"God forbid!"

"Then off with the packs—and hurry!"

Ismail began to obey.

"Thou! Lord of the Rivers! (For that is what Darya Khan means.) What is thy calling?"

"Badranga" (guide), he answered.

"Did she not send me back down the pass to be a guide? If she says I am badranga, shall any say she lies?"

"I say thou art unpicker of mules' bundles," answered King. "Begin!"

For answer he thrust the rifle barrel forward insistently. King, with the movement of determination that a man makes when about to force conclusions, drew up his sleeves above the wrist. At that instant the moon shone through the mist and the gold bracelet glittered in the moonlight.

"May God be with thee!" said "Lord of the Rivers" at once. And without another word he laid down his rifle and went to help off-load the mules.

King stepped aside and cursed softly. But for a vein of wisdom that underlay his pride he would have pocketed the bracelet there and then and have refused to wear it again. But as he sweated his pride he overheard Ismail growl:

"Good for thee! He had taught thee obedience in another bat of the eye!"

"I obey her!" muttered Darya Khan.

"I, too," said Ismail. "So shall he before the week dies! But now it is good to obey him. He is an ugly man to disobey!"

"I obey him until she sets me free, then," grumbled Darya Khan.

"Better for thee!" said Ismail.

The packs were laid on the ground, and the mules shook themselves, while the jackals that haunt the Khyber came closer, to sit in a ring and watch. King dug a flashlight out of one of the packs, gave it to Ismail to hold, sat on the other pack and began to write on a memorandum pad. If was a minute before he could persuade Ismail that the flashlight was harmless, and another minute before he could get him to hold it still. Then, however, he wrote swiftly.

Dear the Khyber, a mile below you. Dear Old Man—I would like to run in and see you, but circumstances don't permit. Several people sent your regards by me. Herewith go two mules and their packs. Make any use of the mules you like, but store the loads where I can draw on them. Please do not would like to have a talk with you before taking the rather desperate step I intend, but I don't want to be seen entering or leaving Masjid. Can you come down the pass without making your intention known? It is growing misty now. It ought to be easy. My men will tell you where I am and show you the way. Why not destroy this letter?—Atheistan.

He folded the note and stuck a postage stamp on it in lieu of a seal. Then he examined the packs with the aid of the flashlight, sorted them and ordered two of the mules reloaded.

"You three!" he ordered then. "Take the loaded mules into all Masjid fort. Take this chit, you. Give it to the sahib in command there."

"To hear is to obey!" said the nearest man. They took the mules' leading reins and before they had gone ten paces were swallowed in the mist that had begun to flow southeastward. The night grew still, except for the whimpering of jackals.

Ismail came nearer and squatted at King's feet. Darya Khan came closer too. King had tied the reins of the two horses and the one remaining mule together in a knot and was sitting on the pack. Solemn, almost motionless, squatted on their hunkers, they looked like two great vultures watching an animal die.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Nov.
17, 1877.—The cotton mill manufactured nearly 105,000 yards of goods this week.
Another chrysanthemum heard from,
and the blossoms are now as thick as autumn leaves. Mrs. James Helms reports that she has a chrysanthemum with 260 blossoms, all pure white.
A few days ago Mr. C. Reese paid a farmer $180 for a quantity of beef, giving him $56 in a check on the bank and the balance in currency. The farmer put the treasure in his broad pocketbook and carefully laid it away.
When he wanted to use some of the money he discovered that the mice had been tampering with it. They had eaten through one end of the book, had destroyed more than half thecheck and more or less damaged the currency. The check was made all right by Mr. Reese but the currency will probably have to go to Washington.
There now lives in this city an elderly man, H. J. Baker, a saloon-keeper, who was for several years an intimate friend of Daniel Webster.
When the great statesman went on his fishing excursions Baker accompanied him and prepared the fish for eating.
His style of baking them was such as to greatly please Webster, and he would frequently remark that the best meal he ever had was prepared by Mr. Baker. The latter can tell very interesting anecdotes of the mighty statesman that ever stood in the senate of the United States.DR. EDITH BARTLETT

ZIMMERMAN HAS BIG JOB NOW BEFORE HIM

New York, Nov. 17.—Eddie Zimmerman, hailed as the greatest third baseman of all time before he perpetrated his famous run from the batter's box to third base, is now faced with the big job of coaching the Yankees.

He is able to live down the awful day on which Eddie Collins out-footed him in a costly foot race, he will be doing a man's job and no one will seek to take credit from him.

He is a man of a leaning to bi-ant, outchies at various times. Usually it picks out a time when the works can be all gummed up, and that's what happened during the world's series. But the thing of that animal in the past will be as a simple wheeze compared with what will take place next season. In the opinion of many ball players and critics of the national pastime.

Franklin Temple, getting in close proximity to John Evers next season, is the memory of that foot race, just conjuring up the spectacle of Eddie Collins, who was the star of the Yankees, and who was the star of the Yankees, and who was the star of the Yankees.

And, stranger of all, Dave Robertson would be taking the grins, if Zimmerman pulled his stunt immediately after Dave dropped a fly ball—which was promptly forgotten.

BIG FOOTBALL CONTEST SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

Memorabilia, all of which were "all out" today for the biggest athletic event of the year in the northern peninsula. It is the annual football game of the Marquette and Menominee high school teams.

In past years the annual game has been staged Thanksgiving day. The date was advanced this year. Menominee won last year's contest, 3 to 0.

Sport Snap Shots

It is hard for the average fight fan to realize that little more than a year ago Jack Dillon was one of the most prominent figures in the fight game. It was only a short while ago that Dillon was tipping over everyone that was brought against him and usually someone quite a bit heavier. It will be remembered that some were so on the enthusiastic in their praise of the little fighter that they declared he was the only man in the game who had really shown himself worthy of a chance to meet Jess Willard. And that in spite of the fact that Dillon would be at a greater disadvantage in reach and weight against Willard than the average bantam would against a heavyweight. Today Dillon is scarcely ever mentioned and he has been whipped many times recently by very ordinary fighters. It can't be said that any one decisive defeat has brought on Dillon's decline. The truth seems to be that he has just about burnt out and the stuff he had a year ago is with him no more.

While many are regarding the grand old days as Carlisle when Jim Thorpe was playing the greatest football one man had played before or since it should be remembered that Thorpe is still on the gridiron and playing football as vigorously as ever before. While it's true that professional football has never had quite the glory of the amateur game to one who admires mere athletic skill there is nothing finer to see than Jim Thorpe tearing through the opposition with his Canton professionals. Thorpe may not be the greatest ball player in the game, but his wonderful football ability has not faded.

Ivan Olson and Anns Strunk were the only big leaguers to perform more than once in the unusual feat this past season of getting two hits in the same inning. Olson came through with two bingles in one inning, once in the eighth inning of a game on May 17, and the second time in the sixth inning of a game on Aug. 25. All of Olson's four hits were singles. Strunk also pulled the trick twice, getting two singles in one inning of a game played against Washington on April

MAHAN CAPTAINS A NAVY ELEVEN

Eddie Mahan.

Eddie Mahan, former Harvard star and captain, is another prominent footballer who is starting with a cantonment eleven this fall.

14 and a single and a double in a game against Cleveland on June 22. The best record in this way in a single performance was that of Ray Bates of the Athletics, who got a double and a triple in the same inning.

Frank Taberski, pocket billiard champion, has beaten seven recent challengers in succession and only needs two more triumphs to secure permanent possession of the trophy. Jerome R. Cough, former champion in competing on Taberski's great work in scoring 277 points to Concanon's 92 in the final block of their recent match in Buffalo, said: "Never have such odds been overcome. Taberski's achievement in scoring 183 balls to Concanon's four in the beginning of the final night's play, after being 127 balls behind, stands without parallel in the annals of championship play."

One of the season's football stars who deserves large applause is young Johnny Gilroy of Georgetown, who may be mentioned as the gameliest player of the season. Last season Gilroy was the leading point scorer of his team and he was anxious to do even more this season. It was remarked in a recent game against Fordham that Gilroy was not playing with all the pep that he usually shows and after the game it was discovered that he had played through the biggest part of the game with a broken shoulder. A heavy harness had helped to protect it somewhat, but of course the injury greatly reduced Gilroy's effectiveness. Gilroy deserves mention as one of the gameliest players in the game.

It seems to be a hard matter to keep Paddy Livingston out of the big leagues. He may leave for a while but he's pretty certain to come back. Last season Livingston managed the Milwaukee Brewers, but next season will find him back in first company with the New York Yanks. Miller Huggins says he needs Paddy.

ABE MARTIN

How'd it do for our conservation officials? Ask the dealers in necessities. I make a few sacrifices during the war, but I don't let my energy get out of control. I don't let my energy get out of control. I don't let my energy get out of control.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

No more anti-war plays! Such is the edict which has gone forth from film producers of the country.

At the request of the department of justice, a session of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry was called recently, at which United States Attorney Caffey laid the proposition before the gathering.

It was pointed out that certain films, tending to discourage war, were being distributed in this country. While the practice was not general, it was urged that producers take the matter in hand at once, and check it for all time.

Arthur S. Fried, who presided at the meeting, expressed the hearty cooperation of the organization with the government.

Committees have been appointed, and plans are being made to promptly suppress any films of a questionable character. Concrete examples are being sought, and drastic measures will be employed, if the offense is persisted in.

PROVES FILM WORK AIDS STAGE ARTIST
Mario Doro returned to the Broadway stage this month after several seasons in the films and scored a personal triumph as the demented heroine in a gloom-drenched play called "Barbara."

It was the critics' verdict that Miss Doro's sojourn in the studio had not impaired her skill as a speaking actress. Rather, it was felt that she is better for it, seeming to possess more zeal and enthusiasm and a new viewpoint for the work at hand.

The play, incidentally, borrows a device from the films in attempting to visualize the thoughts of the "insane" girl. The acts fade in and fade out, purposely keeping the action on a plane of studied unreality.

This arrangement undoubtedly strengthens the interest and keeps the suspense keyed up to the desired notch, to say nothing of smoothing out a chatty plot that might otherwise prove terribly awkward and jerky.

Ray Griffith, Keystone comedian, has left pies and bathing girls for the rigors of war. Griffith is at Annerly, Wash., as a member of the national draft army. He left the latter part of last week.

Donald Fullen is another "Triangle" employee to enter the service of his country, though not as a fighter. Fullen goes to Seattle soon to enter the employ of a shipbuilding concern. This was his vocation before becoming a screen actor.

Thomas Meighan will appear in support of Pauline Frederick in the latter's forthcoming issue. Thomas likes to play leads to the married ladies. Recently he was in Billie Burke's support.

FRESHMAN TEAM IS BIG NOISE AT YALE

Coach Art Brides.

Freshman football gets all the attention this season. The informal varsity team composed of upper classmen doesn't have a look-in with the fresh outfit. The war policy at Yale has been a development of the best freshman material and Coach Art Brides, the old Yale star, who is handling the freshmen, has developed a fairly strong line-up from the material at hand.
